Cassils: Human Measure Live

World Premiere

October 7, 2021

The recent government review of the UK Gender Recognition Act fell short of promises to reform and remove the need for a medical diagnosis in order to self-identify, omitting legal recognition for non-binary persons or support for minors.

Great Britain placed 10th across Europe in terms of LGBTQI+ liberties according to ILGA-Europe's Rainbow Europe Map, rating particularly low for hate crime, legal gender recognition and bodily integrity.

It is against this backdrop we present the world premiere of Cassils' first piece of contemporary dance, Human Measure (2021), building upon Cassils' knowledge of kinesiology, martial arts and sports science to reinterpret Yves Kline's Anthropometries paintings.

National Trans Visibility March
October 9, 2021 : Orlando, FL and Sacramento, CA

The National Trans Visibility March (NTVM), in its third year of advancing the rights of trans and non-binary individuals, will mark the return to an on-the-ground March on Saturday, October 9, 2021, in Orlando, Florida.

This will be the first March to take place outside of Washington, DC.

Local leadership will also include the Gender Advancement Project, a trans-led grassroots movement dedicated to the progression and inclusion of transgender/GNB individuals in all facets of society. This cooperative effort will make it possible for these two events—both vital to the LGBTQ+ community—to enhance and support one another.

The National Trans Visibility March is Coming to Sacramento

Sacramento chosen as one of five host cities for National march for Trans and Non-Binary visibility.
